A bi-weekly publication of
CAMROSE LUTHERAN COLLEGE

October 3, 1980

The Koinonia Spirit descended upon Camrose Lutheran College campus and brought celebration and excitement into the hearts of the participants. Centered in the concept of a gathering, it was a time to be together in the name of Christ—to worship, to learn, to grow, to reflect, to laugh, and to enjoy good food, good music, and the presence of friends.

Koinonia Week I began with a unique and heart warming coffee house. The gymnasium was filled with the sounds of singing, hand-clapping, laughter, fellowship and praise. Judy Pearson, Bernie Hughes, Brock & Merry Jo Smith, Pastor Jim, and Marv Lee made for some terrific entertainment. As the praise-packed evening wore on the momentum of Koinonia increased. By the end of the coffee house, most everyone who attended was impressed and filled with expectancy for the week to come.

Along with Monday morning came the sunshine and glad greetings. The spirit of Koinonia was well on the road to its climax.

For those who were hungry for some solid sustenance, there was the Bread of Koinonia. This enticing and delicious treat was welcomed with open hands and mouth for the four days that it was served. Growling tummies were definitely not a common sound in chapel during Koinonia Week.

Speaking of chapel, it was undeniably a powerful source of worship and fellowship. Pastor Bob Pearson had a refreshing message to deliver to us each morning. His unyielding love and perceptiveness was infectious and only multiplied the goodness that poured forth from the week of fellowship.

The Gathering Events in the evenings were a special time for learning and growing. They were held in a different residence lounge each night. Singing and sharing, we explored "the difference" that seems to have an effect on everyone.

One special "difference" of Koinonia Week was having Koinonia partners. This plan inspired a closer bond between students and staff as everyone tried anxiously to locate their partners and encourage them to come attend Chapel and the Gathering Events.

The spirit of Koinonia was not only present in Chapel and the Gathering Events, but also within the sparkling personalities that make up this vibrant campus.

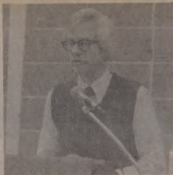

The grande finale to Koinonia Week was the Agape feast. The last gathering event was held in North Hall. When it concluded the body of worshippers moved to the chapel and celebrated the Eucharist—the Holy meal of Thanksgiving. Singing and praising were non-stop as the masses eventually moved to the cafeteria where the Agape feast was being served. Songs and scriptures were shared as the delicacies were brought forth and consumed.

Koinonia Week

Ruth Billington

A Great Gathering...at Hoyme

Koinonia Week was a special event and an entire success. Camrose Lutheran College is a special event in itself. There is an atmosphere of Christain fellowship that gives everybody the security of belonging. The word 'Koinonia' means "Christain community; fellowship". Isn't it only right that we eagerly pursue this goal the whole year through? As Pastor Jim says, "Koinonia is an ongoing event that touches our lives every day in a number of ways."

Our fellowship is inclusive of all aspects of friendship. Within friendships:

'There is a time for everything and a season for every activity under heaven:

a time to be born and a time to die,
a time to plant and a time to uproot,
a time to kill and a time to heal,
a time to tear down and a time to build,

a time to weep and a time to laugh,
a time to mourn and a time to dance,
a time to scatter stones and a time to gather them,
a time to embrace and a time to refrain,
a time to search and a time to give up.
a time to keep and a time to throw away,
a time to tear and a time to mend,
a time to be silent and a time to speak,
a time to love and a time to hate,
a time for war and a time for peace."

Ecclesiastes 3:18

Let's praise the Lord for this wonderful opportunity that He has given us. In Christ's name, Amen.

CHAPLAIN'S CHAT

CHAPLAIN'S CHAT

Last evening (Tuesday) I watched the three-hour TV special, "Playing For Time", a story which centered in the lives of the women who were held as prisoners in a concentration camp during the Second World War. It was filled with all the horror and the inhumanity which characterized such places, but there was also portrayed in the lives of several of the women a glimmer of hope that somehow inspired them to "hang on" even when it seemed impossible to do so.

During the European Choir Tour last June, we had the choice of spending a few hours shopping in Munich or going out to Dachau to see the remnants of a World War II concentration camp. About thirty of us returned with minds boggled at what we had seen and the emotions that we had experienced while quietly walking through the history of that place of a "living hell". But here also, a glimmer of hope was to be known—a monument to those thousands of people who had perished in this place, a marble "altar" as it were, with the words carved into its stone: "Never Again!"

We have a source of hope, even when things look their blackest. Our blackest may not be very black when compared to the sufferings of people in times of oppression and war, but for us it can be pretty dark. It can come in the form of grief or sorrow, it can be shaped like loneliness, or like despair over failure, it may look like feelings of inferiority or inadequacy, it can come to us as spiritual confusion and disillusionment.

God's Word is the constant source of hope, because in that Word He assures us of His love for us, of His presence with us, and of His strength and comfort in all things. "By His great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead (I Peter 1:3)

In the hope that we share!

Pastor Jim

MYRNA'S RE'MARKS

Well here we are already into October with one month of college life behind us. I am sure that there have been both the good and the not so good times for all of you as there have been for me. I have really enjoyed getting to know some of you already and look forward to meeting the rest of you.

There have been quite a few events happening this month including Frosh Week, Koinonia Week, dances, dorm warming parties, and intramural soccer and canoeing to name a few. For the most part I have been pleased with the turn-out at the events. Some of the houses have had more support than others for intramural activity. While intramurals should not interfere with studying, do get out and support your house when you have the time. You will really enjoy yourself.

One word of caution though concerning all the activities going on. Don't let these activities take first place over school work. There comes a time when you have to say no to other things and settle down to the books. It is easy to find something a bit more fun and exciting to do than study but you have to learn self-discipline here. You will find that if you use your time well and organize yourself you can both do well in school and be involved in residence life.

Winds of Change at CLC

By Greg Hall

When asked to write on any modifications that I have perceived between this year and last year many mitations came to thought.

Of course there are many physical changes which are immediately evident. The grounds, flower beds, and shrubs are stupendously resplendent. I am sure this is due to the hard work of summer staff (Fred Morck) with credit going to the ample precipitation which reigned during the summer months.

Other alterations are the ongoing construction of the science extension building as well as the completion of Bergh Hall, before Christmas. With the new dorm came two new intramural teams; Frey and Baldur. Intramural spirit is more fiery and fierce that ever with Valhalla eking out a first place existence—at the moment!

Chapel is even more successful in terms of the number of people participating this year. With the introduction of two Koinonia weeks and Koinonia partners, Christian life is more informative, entertaining and enlightening, to say the least. Credit for these changes should be extended to John and Pastor Jim's spirit.

The athletic teams appear as if they will be as competitive as ever. The women's volleyball team seems to have reaped the largest improvement while the men's volleyball and basketball teams have some super athletes trying out. The women's basketball team under the knowledgeable "people person", Gail Amort, has scoring potential and will do well. New coaches for the women's volleyball team, men's basketball team and hockey team should resolve any fear of losing.

One change immediately evident to all 2nd year students is the Director of Resident Life, Myrna Spilde. She is a great addition to the campus life. We are lucky to have a person such as Myrna guiding us with any problems that we may encounter throughout the year.

The greatest improvements on campus is the enthusiasm of the year students. Participation has been outstanding to date. It's nice to see the campus facilities put to good use, except for those certain rowdies who insist on using the drive circle as a waste disposal.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming is fast approaching with many big events. There will be prize money ($50, $30, & $10) awarded to the best decorated dorms. This includes the lounge, rooms, and hallways. Also, each house is expected to enter a float in the homecoming parade on Saturday for intramural points.

Special events for this weekend is the hosting of the ACAC cross country race and canoeing meet on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday there will be a Viking Exhibition hockey game against RDC Kings.

Come out and show the alumni the new CLC spirit!

SURF-SEA CHARTERED CRUISES
offer you a round trip to cruise the paradise where sun, sand and surf come together—Hawaii.

Price: $996.95

...Short on cash? School taking all your money? Girlfriend just take the front end off your car? Still making payments on your last I.P.? Consider this:

The CLC Vikettes basketball team is offering you a glimpse of the fun, action and spirit of the islands with the golden beaches. (Complete with beautiful girls, [and guys] and great music.) All this and at a price that won't leave you waxing surf boards and dressing hot dogs to pay your way home.

It's a one night excursion experience that will give you a taste of what these girls will be enjoying later on this year—while we're back here digging ourselves out of winter. But here's your chance to get in on a little of that aloha spirit with the Vikettes before they jet off to Hawaii in December.

The Surf comes up this Thursday at 8:00 p.m. just as the sun is setting to bring on a great night with a lot of super people. Shorts, T-shirts, tank tops and beach attire recommended for when the action gets hot.

Don't worry about going away dry as there'll be plenty of the domestic punch on tap. The Vikettes will also be selling some Florida packaged sunshine (either the orange or grapefruit variety) to be delivered later on this year.

So if, you're looking for some fun and excitement next week and the pécos aren't exactly bulging out of your pockets, the Vikettes have the answer. You'll also be doing you part in supporting a team that'll be going places this year, and Hawaii is only the start.

FREY

IN LIKE A LAMB BUT OUT LIKE A LION
(Hopefully)

Just a note to let you all know who the Bergh Hall executive are and just what "Frey" has been up to lately.

In our house elections on the 14th of September, the following people were elected to fill the necessary positions;

President:	Theresa Townsend
Vice-President:	Len Freeman
Secretary/Treasurer:	Marian Klein
Sports Reps:	Rhonda Wiebe
	Tim Wosney
Religious Life Rep:	Grant Jensen
Social Convenors:	Shannon Thronsdon
	Barb Gibson
Culture Co-od.	Debbie Pallant
House Reporter:	Elan Haverstock

As far as extra-curricular activities are concerned Frey struggled furiously in intramural soccer and canoeing—winning one game in the former and tipping one canoe in the latter, (we'll get better... look out!!). There is a rumor going around that Frey had the highest number of points for the Blood Donor clinic but I guess we'll have to wait until more information is released.

The Bergh girls have been busy cleaning up busted balloons after our birthday party for the Bergh guys at 3:00 a.m. one Wednesday morning. The guys reported that even though they were half asleep the cake tasted great.

That's about it for Bergh Hall news right now so until next issue remember...there is no need to spit in a man's face...unless of course his moustache is on fire!

TYR

When Moi Hall and first floor Hoyne get together the results are... unreal! What I'm really trying to say is there is no group like Tyr!

Tuesday, Sept. 16, the early birds were up at 6:00 a.m. There was a busy hum of blow dryers, clattering of showers, and excited chatter filled the air. Girls dashed to iron crinkled dresses, adjust their makeup, and the guys splashed on cologne while they straightened their ties. What was the big event? The gentlemen each escorted a girl (perhaps even two) to a candlelit breakfast. The service was fast and efficient and the food was enjoyable!

The sun shines brighter at Solheim, this was true last week when we had our dorm warming beach party. The myth that California is the only place to find beach bums was proven false, because we saw plenty of cute bums hanging around the Solheim lounge! But no party is complete without a feast, and thanks to the Solheim girls and guy (Bruce) the chile was excellent. The atmosphere was perfect, thanks to the decoration committee, although it was raining outside, inside was filled with sunshine. Considering we had one night for preparation, it turned out to be a great success and a night of fun.

THOR

Today Back Rubs...
Tomorrow...

Moi hosted a beach party for its dorm warming, in conjunction with Solheim and Ronning. The finer aspects of the beach, such as beach balls, rubber rafts, rubber ducks, buckets and shovels, were all ready available for the beach babies' play. No one went swimming in the pool because the water looked murky, but Moi was left with all the punch because no one clued in to the fact it was in the pool.

Intramurals have been Tyr's favorite activities! They have learned something important. "It isn't whether you win the game but it is how you play the game!" However, when it comes down to canoeing Tyr is a little "wet behind the ears."

Love them legs!!!

LOKI

Greeting from Loki! We here at Anderson Hall are excited about the upcoming year. Excited about living together as a unit, growing closer together, and especially being a part of what makes CLC. Although we are a small house, one would be amazed at our ability to whoop up a storm. Have we got spirit? Do we have enthusiasm? Have we got what it takes? You bet! We're especially excited about upcoming intramurals and expect a lot of participation. We've had several house meetings and the most important was our House election where we elected our House Executives. The results were as follows:

President:	Karen Hillmer
Vice-President:	Paul Bowie
Secretary/Treasurer:	Sherry Fisher
Social Coordinator:	Linda Erickson
Sports Reps:	Helen Korren
	Deryl Burzynski
Religious Life Rep:	Kim Kirylchuk
House Reporter:	Joyce Johnson

We had a good turnout and a lot of fun.

Speaking of fun there was a recent raid among the Loki called the "Good Morning" raid. It went like this: Early, early one morning the girls quietly descended to the lower floor, armed with fresh cinnamon buns and smiles. They then proceeded to present each guy with a "Good Morning" and a personal invitation to eat in the lounge. Those who dared to oppose were neatly mobbed and dragged out, and according to their comments they were thoroughly enjoying themselves. Later that morning, the guys responded by escorting the girls to breakfast.

In closing there are only three words worthy of saying, these words are associated with power, have air of enthusiasm, and a ring of victory. They are:

LOKI! LOKI! LOKI!

TROLL

Believe it or not fellow CLC'ers North Hall residents are alive and well. We may just appear somewhat separate from the rest of the campus. Life in this dismal hall is not what you may think—it is enjoyable. Oh, you may laugh and remind me of the condition of the rooms, and of the unsanitary conditions of our overly small bathrooms, but I say it is not the quality of the living conditions (regardless of the same room and board fees). However, it is the quality of the individuals that reside there that make the difference.

I personally feel that the group of individuals that are currently living here are a unique group of people in the sense that they provide the dorm with that much sought after feeling—SPIRIT. This year we are not Troll the minor spirit of the ancient Norse mythology, rather we are North, and we feel that we do not need the insecure identity of any ancient Norse myth. We are proud to be a dorm that is unique in name, but moreoverly we are a dorm of unique characters.

What of that dorm mascot that we are so pleased with?

What of the pillow fights?

What of the spiny laughs of the group of four that infest the 2nd floor.

These are just a few of the things that students will always remember and cherish as the unique experience of the year that they spent in North.

BALDUR

Baldur consists of the lower floor of Ronning and the 3rd floor of Hoyne.

In the house elections the results are:

President: Jim Burton
Vice-Pres: Judy Hutson
Secretary/Treasurer: Sandi Svenengard
Social Convenor: Val Bunbury

Religious Life Reps: Ruben Hansen
Doug Thurn

Sports Reps: Shelgha Mason
Mark Bosworth
Diane Christianson

We have been doing very well in intramural. Finishing third in the Bodeo and cleaning up in the canoe races with 2 first and a second. Our first division soccer team did extremely well winning all four games. Outscoring the other teams 31-1.

By all appearances Baldur is going to be a force to be reckoned with in all intramural activities.

Welcome to the DAG. For those of you who are not sure what this is it is really quite simple. This is the Dagligtálé, a bi-weekly publication sponsored by the Students' Union and produced by the newspaper staff. If that does not explain what this is then you could say it is 'the counterpart of the U of A's Gateway, The U of B.C.'s UBYSEY, or SAIT's Emery Weal. Even though we do not look as large as any of the above issues, neither is our campus.

For a campus of about 500 students, the administration and the growth and development committee has done a good job. The construction of Bergh Hall was completed on schedule, along with the up-grading of North Hall. Telephones were installed before Christmas; a far cry from last year. The most apparent addition on campus is the construction of the new lab and classroom extension. This extension will hopefully be completed by mid-spring, so that construction can begin on the new Faith and Life Centre. Hopefully the good work will continue into the future.

Unfortunately the job they have done suppling parking space by the new dorms has not quite lived up to the high expectations set by the college. The biggest 'improvement' in parking was made this summer when the college put pipes up outlining the circle in the centre of the new dorms. These pipes might add to the aesthetic appearance of the college but make the ring impractical, especially for a fire lane! Even if you can get around the circle you are still faced with the problem of finding a parking spot, which means driving all the way back to the other side of the campus or taking a chance getting your car boxed in for a week.

This wouldn't be bad except for the incurring parking tickets. Tickets to date have not been allocated and hopefully won't have to be, that choice is up to us; as long as it is just a temporary parking lot we are going to have to treat it as such. After all you did pay $60 for a plug-in parking stall, so why not use it!

ELECTIONS FOR THE POSITIONS OF OFF-CAMPUS REPS. AND TWO LIASON OFFICERS WILL BE HELD ON MONDAY, OCT. 6

Two Liason officers (one male, one female) will be members of the Students' Athletic Board and act as coordinators between the Students' Council and the Athletic Board.

The Off-campus Representative must be an off-campus student and acts as a liason between the off-campus students and the Students' Council.

Elections will take place on Monday, Oct. 6 in the classroom building between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
 I would like to bring to the attention of the Dag and its readers a situation which I consider to be unfair. A friend of mine is living in North Hall. She applied for a double room, but never recieved a roommate. The college has now told her that she has to do one of three things. She can either move in with one of the two other girls in North in the same situation (which means that one of them is left without a room-mate), move across the bridge, or pay extra money for a single room. My friend likes living in North Hall and doesn't want to leave. She has made many friends there, as well as becoming involved in house and dorm activities. She cannot afford to pay for a single room.

It does not seem fair to me that my friend should be forced into those alternatives because the college has been unable to find her a room-mate. She is far from unwilling to have a room-mate—she would very much like to have one, as long as she can stay in the place where she has become settled and feels at home. What is the point in having her room left empty. There is already one study room on the girls' floor in North and making another one out of her empty room seems rather pointless. Why couldn't the college simply leave here where she is until they can find her a room-mate? Last year, there were many girls in her situation who did not have to more or pay extra for the single room they did not want. If the college cannot be like Noah and pair everyone up "two by two", at least they shouldn't make the "singles" suffer.

Laura Warmen

Dear Laura:
 I realize that you feel that your friend is being treated unfairly but you must look at this situation for the college's point of view as well. They are charging all the other students with single rooms the extra $100/semester for the privilege and use of a single room. They must try and be fair to these students as well. It is not really a matter of economics but a set of principles...what one does for one, one must do for another.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

The 1980/81 edition of Vikette volleyball has a lot going for it this year. Coach Barb Beebe's and the team's enthusiasm about the coming year seem to indicate this.

Tryouts are not quite finished, but the core of the talent on the team seems to be pretty well established. According to Coach Beebe, "there are a few girls that have played on some collegiate teams already, and on teams that won in the provincial last year. But it's interesting that about half of them (the team) are in grade 12."

In terms of expectations the girls themselves have set down a few goals of their own for this year. Among these is one that states "it will be important to strive for the goal of having a winning team, and that an element of competitive spirit be maintained". This is also reflected in Coach Beebe's comments. "I'm going to try to be flexible, although because the team has decided to be competitive, we will probably have the best six as the first string, but it's not like you're first string and you'll stay that way forever. Because they do want to win games we will go with strengths, that's what we decided."

The team itself has a few strengths in terms of individuals, but it is a little early to tell for sure. As Barb put it, "I hate to name names right now, but there are a few standouts. There are definitely some people with superior abilities...I'd hate to say right now that there's a star or anything like that, because it's not the kind of game that goes for stars."

The expectations for this year, I think, are really good. I think there's a lot of talent here...there is a lot of potential for this team." What else can you say, it really does look like Vikette volleyball is going to be for real.

CANOEING

The CLC and Red Deer College canoe teams, tied for first place in the CLC Invitational Canoe meet Saturday. Both ended up with 8 points, with NAIT coming in third with 7 points.

In the first race, the women's event, the Vikings came in first with a time of 43:34 minutes. The Red Deer team placed second at 46:23 minutes. The first lap was close but by the second and third laps CLC had pulled away and maintained the lead to the end of the race.

In the men's event NAIT placed first with a time of 74:09 minutes, Red Deer came in at 75:32 minutes and CLC ended up third at 76:31 minutes. CLC was leading the race heading into the second lap when they unfortunately tipped their canoe. They made a tremendous effort, though, to finish as close as they did.

The mixed event was much closer than any of the other events. NAIT edged the Vikings out by a margin of 39:11 minutes to 39:32 minutes. Red Deer came in third with a time of 42:46 minutes.

In the war canoe event Red Deer ended up in first place with CLC and NAIT following, in that order. No times were available for these events.

GUYS VOLLEYBALL

In their second year of existence, the Vikings look like they will be contenders in the Northern Division of the ACAC league. Judging from comments made by coach Brian Cassidy and from the five games to zero win over the local high school, the above statement can be made in some confidence.

Although the exhibition game against the Camrose Composite Trojans was not a serious challenge to the Vikings, it provided an opportunity for them to show what kind of a team we're going to have. "We're going to go as far as we can, and just a little bit further", was the response 'Cas' gave when asked about his expectations for this season. "Usually first place is gone by January, and the team just starts dissolving after that. If you make a concrete objective, you run into that danger."

As for the team, the cuts have not all been made, but at this point the team is well-rounded and "is not lacking in any area at all, but we've got a lot of work to do. The team is much better than last year in every position; better ability, better conditioning."

They are competitive and are going to be competitive on the basis of other teams in the league. I'm basing this on what last year's teams were. Some teams could be (of) less caliber because of graduation and some teams could be even stronger because of that. But I know that we're high this year and we're of a better well-rounded calibre. On that basis I know that we're going to do better than last year."

*****

All told, this first canoe meet this year was very competitive and it was enjoyed by all who watched it. The great weather that we had Saturday afternoon made it even more enjoyable because it gave us a chance to get out into the sun. I'm sure we're all looking forward to the ACAC meet here in Camrose on Homecoming Weekend. We'll get 'em then!

For the past two Saturdays the CLC Cross Country team has won two meets. One at Red Deer hosted by Red Deer College on Sept. 13 and an open meet here in Camrose hosted by CLC on Sept. 20.

PASS THE HONEY, PLEA

Hi! How's it going? Honestly how's it going? Are you swimming or does it feel like you're barely drown-proofing? Does it seem like term papers and assignment deadlines are creeping up too fast and you hardly have a chance to catch your breath? Listen to a proverb:

"Pleasant words are like a honeycomb, sweetness to the soul and health to the body"

Proverb 16:24

Take a minute out and share some HONEY with a friend, with someone new or even with the faculty and staff. It'll not only pick them up but it'll give you a new outlook, too. This is what the CLC Students' Union is about—keeping the student body living and studying in harmony and getting everyone involved in school spirit. Exciting things are already happening this year—catch the fever!!! (AND NOT MONO!!)

Frigg Hansen

Dear Frigg:

I came to CLC looking to get hitched! Of course my specifications were pretty stiff! I wanted a Real Man! I looked up "handsome" in a thesaurus and this is what I want: well proportioned, fine looking, graceful, easy, appropriate, noble, ample, and last but not least... large. The only problem I face is all the CLC men meet the qualifications. What do I do? I can't possibly have them all, or can I?

"Itchen to Itchen"

Dear Itchen:

You have a problem. Fortunately for you there are many solutions.

- 1) May I recommend our resident Psychologist, Dr. C. Olson. If he can't help you, he can recommend more that one head shrink.
- 2) Have you had your eyesight checked recently? If not, I recommend it immediately. If you have, let me know, and I'll get mine checked. I could be missing all the scenery!
- 3) Perhaps you should stop by and have a chat with Pastor Jim.
- 4) If all else fails: Take a COLD shower, and use ozonol for your itchi!

REVENGE OF THE KILLER FROSH

REVENGE OF THE KILLER FROSH

All during Frosh Week first year students could be seen doing many weird things—wearing pajamas to class, eating with strainers, and getting up at 4:30 in the morning to do calisthenics. Besides doing all these absurd things, we frosh were required to cater to the demands of the seniors.

Some of the seniors' demands were not bad, but others were outrageous. One day, our Students Council President, Harold, asked (actually told) my friend and I to do his laundry. We never figured that he would have so much laundry that we would spend a whole evening doing it.

We Frosh decided to get our revenge by adding a special touch to Harold's laundry. With the help of two of our friends, we made sure that Harold would have fun getting dressed for awhile. I'm sure Harold has discovered by now, his jeans are sewn shut at the bottom, his shirt-sleeves are sewn up, and even his underwear was not spared having rows of stitching decorating them.

I hope you have been in stitches over this Harold! We Frosh loved every moment of it!
